

Supporting Families of Students with Food Allergies in the Public Schools

Thursday, October 14, 2021
1:00pm

Join us to discuss food allergy management in the public school setting. This presentation intends to educate families to become knowledgeable participants of the school team ensuring that their child has safe, inclusive and equal access to education. We will review relevant laws and provide suggestions for effective accommodations. There will be time for questions and answers.

REGISTER HERE: <https://bit.ly/3tAHn9o>

Presenter: Maggie Francis-Gietzen, Ed.D. is a CT certified educator, reading consultant, and trained school administrator with 20 years of experience in public education. Maggie specializes in early childhood education, literacy instruction, teacher training and food allergy advocacy. She is a Partners in Policy Making graduate and serves on the Board of SpEdConnecticut. As the mother to two young boys who have the diagnosis of life-threatening food allergies, she is committed to supporting families to secure individualized food allergy management plans for their children in the school setting.