How tonight’s discussion can help you navigate your child’s journey.

Every student with an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) and their parents will face a process to transition from high school. In order to prepare a student with an IEP for a successful transition from high school to post-secondary education, employment, and/or independent living, we will be addressing your concerns along with Dr. Kardos. She is an expert in evaluating, assessing and implementing transition plans, no matter what direction the student takes. We are looking forward to our conversation with Dr. Kardos discussing the process, what would work best based on the student’s transition needs, and the results from a transition assessment.

Finding the right road ahead:

- Who needs transition planning?
- When should transition planning happen?
- Who is best qualified to do it?
- What is included in a transition evaluation?
- What are the major questions that should be answered in a transition plan?
- What are the options for transition services?
